With an honest and creative character set and a truly exceptional background in real estate, Dennis Brophy has shown time and again why he is considered to be an outstanding agent.

Dennis and his family have proudly called Massachusetts home for over forty years. Since the beginning of his career, Dennis has focused his creativity and ambitions towards the thriving real estate industry in Massachusetts. His career began with a certificate in carpentry and led to ownership of a successful general contracting business.

For over 25 years, Dennis has served the real estate market as the proprietor of DM Brophy General Contracting, providing licensed general contracting services for the residents of Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Throughout his tenure, Dennis has invested in a set of skills that spans virtually all aspects of the real estate industry.

Dennis' experience ranges from home planning, construction, and remodeling to staying abreast of new licensing and regulation requirements, to marketing and selling real estate. His consideration of market conditions and pricing are practical, and his sought-after advice on home improvement before listing is invaluable. With his experience in negotiation and project management, Dennis' keeps his clients well informed while delivering the results they expect.
